Brittian: Diving Iceland’s Brotherhood Vatn

The westward-marching British are an interesting group of scuba divers. They are not particularly interested in the more distant continents, yet they are very interested in the cold, remote and ruggedly beautiful environment of Iceland's long and narrow inland sea. But the British are not the only ones interested in the Vatn. The British have their own national tradition of the Vatn, which is characterized by a special kind of diving called the "Brotherhood Vatn." This kind of diving is different from the usual kind of diving, which is called the "conventional Vatn." The Breakfast of the Brotherhood Vatn is a unique and special kind of diving, which is characterized by the use of a special kind of suit called the "Brotherhood Suit." The Brotherhood Suit is designed to provide extra insulation and warmth, which is necessary in the cold and rugged environment of the Vatn.

The Brotherhood Vatn is a unique and special kind of diving, which is characterized
by the use of a special kind of suit called the "Brotherhood Suit." The Brotherhood Suit is designed to provide extra insulation and warmth, which is necessary in the cold and rugged environment of the Vatn.